Eight Britons Injured By German Bombing Attack

RAIDERS THROW EXPLOSIVES INTO SLEEPING CITIES

Three Counties North Of London Report Damage During Night

FLEET BUSY IN CHANNEL

Observers See Flames High In Air Over Numerous Points On Continent

LONDON, May 25 — The first serious Nazi bomb attack on English soil was revealed today by the British Air Ministry and the Ministry for Home Security in an announcement that eight civilians had been injured last night by German sky raiders.

The German bombers dropped their deadly cargoes over the North Riding area of Yorkshire, 200 miles north of London, and in the East Anglia district, consisting of the three counties of Essex, Suffolk and Norfolk, north-east of the British capital.

Eight civilians were injured — three requiring hospitalization — in the North Riding attack. There were no casualties in the raids on East Anglia.

British anti-aircraft defenses went into action and English fighter planes took wing, but it was not revealed what success met their efforts. No details as to the number of German planes involved, nor as to the number of bombs dropped, were given.

At the same time the mighty British fleet was believed engaged in a furious bombardment of German-held French ports across the English Channel.

English Windows Shaken

Watchers along the Kentish coast reported dense smoke billowing three miles into the sky and drifting along the horizon for thirty miles from across the channel. For three days heavy cannonading has been heard from the direction of the French shore, and so strong have been the detonations that windows and doors were rattled and shaken in England.

Early this morning off the southeast coast a huge, red glow shot skyward from a point across the channel, lighting up the sea for miles around. No explosions accompanied this phenomenon, but it must have been caused by a fire of heroic proportions somewhere along the French coast, it was stated.

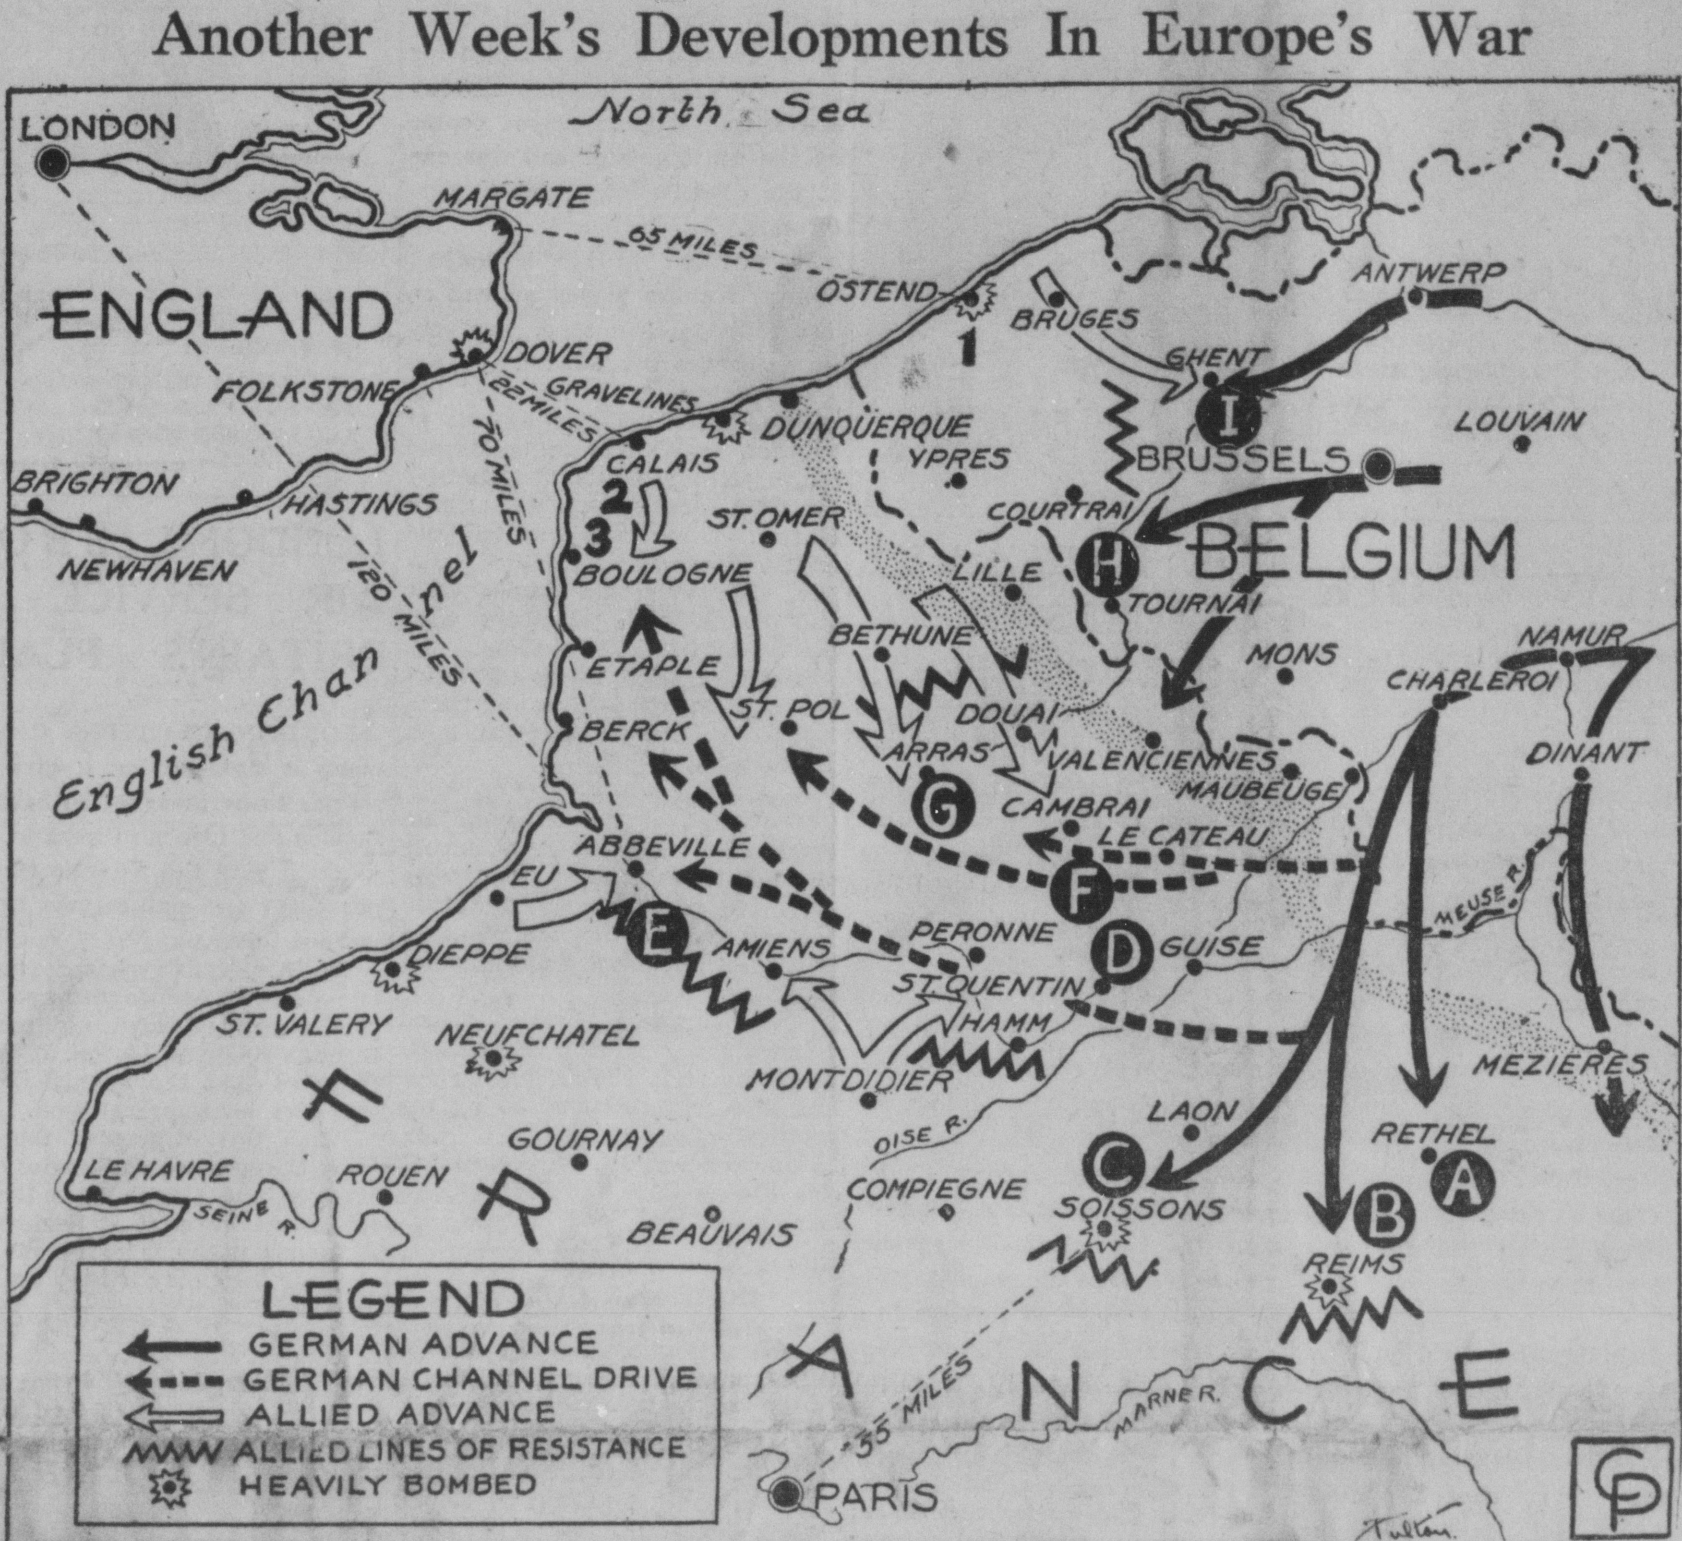

Eyewitnesses arriving from the Boulogne area said British warships outside that French port have been shelling the Germans as the Nazi Panzer (mechanized) detachments entered the city. The shelling was said to have begun Thursday morning, with the projectiles from the big naval guns screaming high above the city and bursting over the cliffs and on the shore road near German tank detachments.

SMASHING through with terrifying speed, German troops broke the Maginot Line and drove towards Paris, reaching Reims (A), Reims (B) and Soissons (C) before heavy Allied reinforcements stemmed the advance. The disastrous results of this drive resulted in French removal of their commander-in-chief, General Gamelin, and placing General Weyand in supreme command of Allied war activities. Hurried military reorganization succeeded in halting the Nazi drive towards the French capital, but the blitzkrieg merely branched off to the west, heading to the coast for a projected attack on the British Isles. Sweeping through St. Quentin (D), the mechanized German war machine sped towards Amiens and Abbeville (E), the latter city changing hands daily. The Germans halted outside Abbeville for supplies then continued their advance to Boulogne (3) where a terrific battle ensued for possession of the important coastal city. The German Channel drive aimed towards capturing Calais (2), nearest French port to England, and also trapping the 1,000,000 British troops in the north. These troops fought desperately on several fronts, impeding the German drive on the ports. Another branch of the German drive swept northward in the direction of St. Pol to lace the north of France with the mechanized divisions. Allied forces fiercely fought to crack communications and reported they had cut them at several places east of Amiens. Pockets of Allied recaptured Arras (G) and intensified the battle of the war was reported. This Allied force would meet French forces driving from Mondidier in the south. Further in the north, Germans announced they had paused awhile, though maintaining heavy pressure on the British near Tournai (H), Ghent (I) and Valenciennes as they pushed towards Ostend (1), where the Belgian government moved from Brussels. The German air fleet, leading tank divisions, spread red ruin through Picardy and Flanders with thousands of incendiary bombs dropped by the swiftly flying Nazi bombers who went as far as Dover in their raids, preview of what will happen if the Germans gain control of the Channel ports.

EMPIRE'S RULER HIT BY LEADER OF NAZI PRESS

BERLIN, May 25—King George VI was denounced as a "wretched hypocrite" today by Dr. Otto Dietrich, Nazi press chief, in a statement answering the British monarch's broadcast of yesterday to his subjects throughout the world.

Obviously with Chancellor Hitler's sanction, Dietrich described the speech as "unkingly and miserable" and directly assailed the character of the English King. Dietrich declared:

"At the moment you, King George, begin to tremble because the German sword is retaliating for the crimes of your government, and you make the most monstrous speech which ever left the mouth of any king."

"If you were a man, you, as the challenger in this decisive hour would face your fate on the battlefield instead of hypocritically shielding yourself behind moral principles which to invoke you have not the slightest justification."

Rejecting the king's claim that the British Empire is based on freedom, justice and peace, Dietrich charged that England's empire was established "through brutalities, oppression, violence and shameless misdeeds, not by peace."

NEW HOLLAND'S $15,000 ISSUE MAY BE SUCCESS

The fate of the New Holland $15,000 bond issue for the construction of a water works system was still uncertain Saturday after a recount of ballots held Friday at the Fayette County board of elections, revealed that 217 votes had been cast for the measure and 112 against.

According to these figures, the issue passed, Emmitt Crist, solicitor for New Holland, reported, but he added that he felt certain that an application for a recount of votes in the East precinct will be filed with the Pickaway County board. In rechecking the ballots for the West precinct, Fayette County officials reported 37 votes for the issue and one against. Nine votes were undetermined. The vote in the East precinct was 180 for and 111 against the measure.

MUSICAL UNITS OF HIGH SCHOOL OFFER PROGRAM

Next Wednesday evening promptly at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium, three school instrumental groups will present their annual public concert. These organizations, under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein, are the high school orchestra of 26 members, the high school band of 57 and the junior band of 60.

It has been the custom of these groups for the last 10 years to present such a program in order that the Circleville public may see the progress of the music groups. The public is invited to be present next Wednesday evening. No admission will be charged.

The following program has been planned by Mr. Zaenglein:

- March, "The Commander"
- Overture, "Gypsy Festival"
- High School Orchestra
- Accordion solos, "Penny Serenade" and "An Old Guitar, Old Refrain"
- Dorothy Glenn
- March, "The Star"
- Junior Band
- Saxophone solo, "Valse Danseuse"

Nazi Units Foes Fight Win Ghent On Somme

Important City In Belgium Falls, Berlin Says

PINCER TIGHTENS

Germans See End Of British On Continent

BERLIN, May 25—A smashing German mechanized drive brought Nazi forces into the famous French channel port of Calais today within 20 miles of British soil across the mine-infested waters of the English Channel.

British military authorities said they had no confirmation in London of the Berlin claim that German troops entered Calais. It was pointed out that a French military spokesman in Paris last night denied the Nazis were in Calais.

A military announcement in Berlin claimed the Germans entered Calais in a sweeping attack northward from Boulogne. A few hours earlier the Germans claimed other tank corps and troops punched another arm toward the English Channel by entering Ghent, only 3 miles from Ostend, important Belgian port.

The German high command also issued a communique asserting Nazi planes bombed and severely damaged an aircraft carrier, a battleship and a cruiser off the Norwegian Coast.

A transport vessel and two merchant ships were hit by bombs and sunk, and three more merchant vessels were seriously damaged by bombs, the communique added.

Allies Disorganized

As the Nazi forces swarmed into both vital cities, heavy bombs dropped from fleets of low-flying German planes disorganized Allied communications and shored devastation among the defenders, it was reported. Both Boulogne and Calais were believed to have been the most important bases of the British Expeditionary Force, and Ghent was the center of strong Belgian resistance.

The Germans insisted their forces in action against Calais and Ghent are no more vanguard units, but consist of large and heavily armed battalions capable of holding objectives against strong attack.

Meanwhile, the battle in progress since Monday for the Ghent-Abbeville pocket raged fiercely with the estimated 1,000,000 Allied (Continued on Page Eight)

ITALIANS READY TO BREAK BOND OF INLAND SEA

ROME, May 25—A prediction that Italy soon will "fulfill her natural aspirations by breaking the Mediterranean chains and reaching the open ocean," was published today in an Italian periodical while signs increased to indicate possible imminent Italian participation in the war.

Commenting on the critical situation facing the Allies, the magazine Relazioni Internazionali (International Relations) warned the Italian people that "the time has come for decisions."

"Italy soon will concretely fulfill her natural aspirations by breaking the Mediterranean chains and reaching the open ocean, the periodical said.

European Bulletins

BUENOS AIRES—The entire South American continent launched a drive against fifth column activities today, obviously deeply aroused by the trend of events in Europe during the last month. Scores of suspects in Argentina, Chile, Uruguay, Peru, Bolivia and Brazil have been rounded up during the last few days, it was revealed today for the first time.

LONDON — At least three enemy tanks were set afire and others put out of action today in a series of Royal Air Force attacks on German concentrations near the channel coast, according to an air ministry communique. German oil depots in Rotterdam again were attacked by British bombers and a fleet of heavy British war planes made bombing forays over and behind the battlefields throughout the night, the communique added.

NEW YORK—Allied orders for American warplanes and accessories amount today to about $725. (Continued on Page Eight)

ASHVILLE BOYS SENT TO PRISON

Youths Admit Thefts; Other Pleas Heard; Hunter To Stand Trial

Nine persons indicted by the May term grand jury were brought before Common Pleas Judge Meeker Terwilliger Saturday for arraignment. Three of the seven persons who pleaded guilty to the charges brought against them were sentenced by Judge Terwilliger.

Those sentenced included Russell Smith and Warren Pence, Asheville youths who admitted robbing two Asheville establishments last week end. Smith and Pence, placed on a two year parole from county jail January 9, after they had served 90 days for stealing auto accessories, were sentenced to from 1 to 15 years each in Mansfield reformatory.

Glen Wells, also involved in the Asheville robberies, pleaded guilty, but his sentence has been delayed until Monday.

After Theodore Riggin had pleaded guilty of issuing a check May 8, to Ellen R. Danis on the Circleville Savings & Banking Company without having sufficient funds in the bank, he was placed on a two year parole.

Donald Hunter, Columbus indicted for armed robbery of Harold Stout's filling station on April 20, pleaded not guilty of the charges and was committed to county jail under $4,000 bond.

Richard Knece, charged with issuing a check with no account, also pleaded not guilty.

Others who pleaded guilty included Norman Coleman, indicted for auto larceny; Lloyd Flowers, for forgery; and Joshua Linton, for statutory charges. No sentences were passed.

OHIOAN, 90, DECLARED INSANE AFTER MURDER

WAUSEON, May 25—Ninety-year-old Hiram Derby, confessed slayer of the 32-year-old wife of his stepson, Mrs. Flora Whitcomb, in an argument over a tombstone, today awaited transfer to the Lima State Hospital for the Criminal Insane.

Derby was declared insane by Probate Judge A. M. Barber at the conclusion of a sanity hearing. At present the aged man is in Wauseon Memorial Hospital, recovering from shock and exhaustion suffered Sunday night when he fled after the shooting.

Big Breach Providing Nazis Passage Being Cut

FIGHTING FIERCE

Hitler's Men On Channel Face Situation

PARIS, May 25 — An official French spokesman today denied a Berlin claim that German troops had entered the highly-strategic channel port of Calais.

"Calais is still in our hands, as well as Boulogne," he said. "We are holding the Germans at Saint Omer as well."

The Germans claimed Boulogne and St. Omer yesterday, and declared it was in a thrust from St. Omer that Nazi troops were able to penetrate Calais.

France's strongest troops today were battling slowly North behind a blazing artillery barrage in the Arras-Cambrai-Valenciennes sector as the French war ministry reported consolidation of the Allied positions on the Somme River Front.

Today's official communique reported:

"Since yesterday evening we have been consolidating our positions on the Somme, and during these operations we made a certain number of prisoners. During the night there was nothing to report along the whole front."

Quadrangle Vital

The fiercest fighting appeared to be in progress in the quadrangle bounded by the towns of Arras, Bapaume, Cambrai and Valenciennes. In this sector the Anglo-French-Belgian forces seek to narrow the breach through which the Nazi forces have been streaming.

By driving North from Amiens and Peronne and South from Bapaume and Sabrai, the Allies are striving mightily to cut off the narrow corridor between their two forces. Success would not only permit resumption of contact between the two important segments of the Allied armies, but at the same time would cut off and encircle the German troops which now have surrounded Belgo-British troops in northwestern France and Belgium.

The strategic importance of the battle to cut through the Nazi line in the Amiens-Bapaume-Cambrai-Peronne sector, was strongly stressed by a Paris military spokesman. He described it as "the greatest battle of the war," and pointed out that its success will achieve the double objective of cutting off from 15,000 to 30,000 German troops in the channel ports salient as well as opening an avenue of escape for approximately 1,000,000 Allied troops bottled up north of the Boulogne-Valenciennes line.

Determined to succeed in this important endeavor, Generalissimo Maxime Weyand relentlessly threw division after division of veteran French shock troops at the German line.

Allied Plans Used

Simultaneously swarms of Allied war planes turned the battle region into an inferno of bursting bombs and chattering machine guns.

Desultory anti-aircraft firing was heard in the Paris region this morning, but no German planes were seen and no bombs were reported being dropped.

F. D. R. TO EVADE POLITICS ANGLE IN SUNDAY TALK

WASHINGTON, May 25—President Roosevelt today was preparing the draft of a national emergency report he will deliver to the people tomorrow night over the radio.

All advance indications pointed to a rather grim fireside talk that would stress the ever-growing threat to American security from abroad.

Despite the rising clamor of Republican leaders that he declare himself out as a third-term candidate in the interests of national unity, Mr. Roosevelt is expected to ignore that issue.

Well known New Dealers predicted the chief executive probably would rebuke his political opponents for injecting the 1940 presidential campaign into the national defense drive.

The President's renomination at the July convention already is assured unless he unmistakably eliminates himself as a candidate. The White House has formally stated he is much too busy with matters of vital national import to be issuing any political statements at this time.

Success would not only permit resumption of contact between the two important segments of the Allied armies, but at the same time would cut off and encircle the German troops which now have surrounded Belgo-British troops in northwestern France and Belgium.

The strategic importance of the battle to cut through the Nazi line in the Amiens-Bapaume-Cambrai-Peronne sector, was strongly stressed by a Paris military spokesman. He described it as "the greatest battle of the war," and pointed out that its success will achieve the double objective of cutting off from 15,000 to 30,000 German troops in the channel ports as well as opening an avenue of escape for approximately 1,000,000 Allied troops bottled up north of the Boulogne-Valenciennes line.

Determined to succeed in this important endeavor, Generalissimo Maxime Weyand relentlessly threw division after division of veteran French shock troops at the German line.

Allied Plans Used

Simultaneously swarms of Allied war planes turned the battle region into an inferno of bursting bombs and chattering machine guns.

Desultory anti-aircraft firing was heard in the Paris region this morning, but no German planes were seen and no bombs were reported being dropped.

Sportsmen Ask Changes In Law, Repair Of Dam

Conservation Department Urged To Maintain Fishing Site; Special Trappers' License To Be Urged At State Conference

Pickaway County sportsmen, represented by a newly-formed Conservation Committee, took several actions Friday evening at a meeting in The Daily Herald office which, it is hoped, will increase sporting interest and correct several existing conditions.

The most important question considered by the sportsmen concerned the dam on the abandoned Ohio Canal in Wayne Township. The Committee decided to recommend to the State Conservation Committee at its meeting June 5 that the department immediately repair the canal dam to provide a fishing place for many persons who are not permitted to travel far for their sport. The dam is no longer in good condition, and sportsmen fear that if it is permitted to deteriorate that the water will drain and fishing will be spoiled.

OHIO COLLEGIANS EXPECT THRILLS IN BIG 6 MEET

BOWLING GREEN, May 25—Indicating one of the most sensational stretch duels in the 38-year history of the Ohio Conference "Big Six" track carnival, the defending champions, the University of Toledo, and Baldwin-Wallace each had 13 men qualified in 10 events of the finals today.

The Oberlin squad placed eight men in the Friday afternoon preliminaries; Kent State six; and Bowling Green, Case, Wooster and Denison five each. Capital placed four men; Muskingum three; Kenyon and Otterbein two each, and Mount Union and Wittenberg one each.

A driving rain protected the meet records from serious assault. The inside lane of the usually excellent B-G track was particularly bad, with puddles along the rail from the all-day rain.

Toledo relied today on Don Youngs, 440-yard star and 880-yard conference champ; Jake Chandler, specialist in the hurdles, high jump and broad jump, and Henry Giles, huge weight thrower, to serve their championship laurels.

Baldwin Wallace placed their hopes of dethroning the Rockets on H. Albert, up-and-coming sprinter and hurdler; Don Hull, the 440-yard conference champ; C. Beatty, another classy middle-distance star, and F. Larimer, defending hurdle champ.

Despite the fact that it can have no bearing on the team outcome, the highlight of the finals is expected to be the two-mile clash of Gil Dodds, Ashland's nationally-known two-miler, and Ron Foree, of Heidelberg. Each has broken the conference mark in an earlier performance this spring.

NEW YORK, May 25—The patched-together New York Giants, the team which the pre-season dopests counted out of this year's pennant race, today dropped anchor in third place in the National League, two and one-half games behind the tied leaders—the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds.

Sparked by the play of Catcher Harry Danning, the Giants, playing a second baseman at third base and experimenting with yearlings at the first and second sacks, have been making life tough for their opponents.

Manager Bill Terry predicted that if the pitching staff, headed by the aging Carl Hubbell, holds up, "We'll be in the race on Labor Day."

Playing the first night game in the 57-year history of the Polo Grounds, the New Yorkers, for the arc-light much to their liking. In fact, they played better offensively than they usually do in the daylight.

A five-run rally in the second inning was all the Giants needed to annex their evening inaugural homers by Joe Moore, Billy Jurges and Al Glosop played a major role in the trouncing of the Boston Bees, 8 to 1. Harry Gumbert limited the Bees to five safeties.

Although Terry has gone on record as against night games, 22-260 fans braved damp miserable weather to show they did not concur with Manager Will's dislikes.

The other games on the senior circuit's abbreviated schedule were rained out.

In the American League, the Chicago White Sox capped their fifth consecutive victory when they noosed out the Detroit Tigers, 2 to 1. Johnny Rigney's three-hit pitching and Johnny Rosenthal's fourth inning single with the bases loaded were the Sox winning points.

Bobby Feller led the Cleveland Indians to a 3 to 2 victory over the St. Louis Browns in St. Louis' first Major League night game.

Misers can be roughly divided into two groups: those whose mentalities will not allow them to part with money on account of early privations or fear of future poverty, and the users whose sole object is to amass gold.

Stooge Club To Spend Over $80 To Help Equip '40 Football Squad

Paul Walters, versatile Circleville High School athlete, was elected honorary captain of the 1939-40 Tiger basketball team when Coach Roy Black called his first 10 cagers together Friday afternoon. Walters played center on the court quintet and was one of the school's most capable performers.

In addition to his basketball ability, Walters played an end on last fall's football team and performs on the track team.

Letters were issued to the cagers, those receiving awards in addition to Walters being Harold Smith, Henry Davis, Jr., Robert Bowsher, Joe Staley and Clark Martin. Other boys who balloted on the captaincy were James Callahan, Don Valentine, James Carr and Frank Geib, members with Martin of the reserve team.

Walters, Smith, Davis and Bowsher are seniors, Martin and Callahan juniors and the other four boys sophomores.

The High School Stooge Club ordered 20 windbreakers during the last week at a cost of more than $80 to help equip the 1940 football team. The windbreakers will be bright red and almost knee length.

The 'Stoogers' were "Good Samaritans," too, for the basketball team last winter, paying for the new uniforms sported by the varsity squad.

LONDON-LISBON AIR SERVICE IN BRITAIN'S PLANS

LONDON—The British Government is anxious for a civil air service to be inaugurated between London and Lisbon to work in conjunction with the Atlantic Clipper passenger and mail service, it was learned today.

The Air Ministry has approached General Franco for permission to run a civil air service through Spain to Lisbon. It is anticipated that the Spanish leader will give his approval soon.

When this is granted the Airways Corporation will immediately start a land service from London to Lisbon by way of Salamanca. Spain's policy is to permit foreign air lines only if they are balanced by a Spanish service over a similar route. The British service would therefore coincide with the inauguration of a Spanish line from Madrid to Lisbon.

At the present time Spain has only one air service, run by Italians from Rome to Barcelona.

Sportsmen Ask Changes In Law, Repair Of Dam

Conservation Department Urged To Maintain Fishing Site; Special Trappers' License To Be Urged At State Conference

Pickaway County sportsmen, represented by a newly-formed Conservation Committee, took several actions Friday evening at a meeting in The Daily Herald office which, it is hoped, will increase sporting interest and correct several existing conditions.

The most important question considered by the sportsmen concerned the dam on the abandoned Ohio Canal in Wayne Township. The Committee decided to recommend to the State Conservation Committee at its meeting June 5 that the department immediately repair the canal dam to provide a fishing place for many persons who are not permitted to travel far for their sport. The dam is no longer in good condition, and sportsmen fear that if it is permitted to deteriorate that the water will drain and fishing will be spoiled.

The Committee decided also to request the Conservation Department to provide a special license for trappers. Under the present law trappers pay the same license as do hunters. The Committee felt that since many trappers carry on their practice for commercial purposes that they should pay more for their permits. Some Pickaway Countians are known to have taken between 700 and 800 muskrat pelts during the last season. There are other trappers who take many raccoons. Conservation officials have declared that the expense of putting a single raccoon in the field is about $6 while trappers receive about $2.50 for their pelts.

Whether or not the Conservation Commission decides to issue a special trapping license the county Committee will ask that trapping of coons be prohibited by law.

A suggestion was made at the meeting that the Conservation Commission extend the pheasant season to coincide with the rabbit hunting season. The Committee took no action on the suggestion.

All other regulations as set up by the Conservation Department for the last hunting season received the approval of the Conservation Committee, which is headed by T. E. Wilson, publisher of The Daily Herald.

John D. Hummel of Circleville and Donald Courtwright of Ashville have been appointed as delegates to the Conservation Department meeting.

WOLVES LIKED AS CONFERENCE FINALS START

EVANSTON, Ill., May 25—With one record already tossed into the ash-can, Big Ten athletes return to the Northwestern University stadium this afternoon to go through the formality of deciding their 1940 track and field championship.

There seemed little chance for anyone to stop Michigan from annexing its fourth straight title. The Wolverines took a running start yesterday when they qualified 19 men in the ten preliminary tests—at least one in each of them.

Indiana, counted on to provide the main argument against returning the trophy to Ann Arbor, could place only ten men—four of them Roy Cochran. The brilliant Hoosier star qualified in the 220-yard dash, where he is defending champion; the 100-yard dash, broad jump and 220-yard dash.

Cochran withdrew from the 440-event, in which he holds the indoor world's record—thereby spoiling a promised duel with Michigan's Warren Breidenbach.

Another of Indiana's qualifiers was Archie Harris, who came through with the sole new mark of the qualifying trials in the discus—a toss of 166 feet, 5 1/2 inches, to better the record set by another great Negro weight man, Bill Watson of Michigan, last year. Watson's record was 160, 10 1/2 inches.

BUCKS IN UPSET

Presbyterian Church To Be Scene Of Annual Sunday School Meeting

Speakers Scheduled For Afternoon, Drama In Evening, June 16

The annual Pickaway County Sunday School convention will be held June 16 in the Circleville Presbyterian Church. Plans for the convention were made during the last week by Sunday School leaders of the county.

Pastors in charge of the program said Saturday that the convention would be more "streamlined" this year than ever before. Speakers will be obtained for the afternoon session, a banquet for young people will be served at 6 p. m. and a drama will be presented during the evening. Some Sunday School leaders believe that programs have been too long and tiring. An effort will be made to make the day more interesting.

A conference will be conducted during the afternoon for Sunday School leaders. The topic of this year's meeting will be "Christian Education for Today."

Banners will be presented to the Sunday Schools having the largest attendance during the day.

Officers of the Pickaway County Council of Religious Education in charge of the event are E. S. Neuding, president; G. D. McDowell, vice president; G. P. Hunsicker, secretary and G. F. Grand-Girard, treasurer. Lawrence Ater of Williamsport is in charge of youth work in the organization.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICE TO START AT 8 O'CLOCK

The Baccalaureate service for the Senior Class of Circleville High School will be held in the First Presbyterian Church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. Robert T. Kelsey will speak on the theme "What a Life."

Three musical numbers by the Presbyterian Choir will be presented during the service. Mrs. Clark Will and Franklin Price will sing a vocal duet "The Lord Is My Light" by Dudley Buck. A quartet composed of Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Ray Davis, Melvin Yates and Adrian Yates, will sing "Prayer" by Guion.

The choir under the direction of Loren Pace will sing the anthem "Great and Marvelous" by Turner.

Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, organist, will play two numbers, for the processional "Triumphal March" by Verdi, and for the postlude "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar.

MEMORIAL DAY RITES

A special Memorial Day service is planned for the Sunday morning worship period of the United Brethren Church, with the American Legion as guests of the church. "The Glory of the Past" will be the subject of the Rev. A. N. Grueser's sermon. The choir, under the direction of Charles Kirkpatrick, will sing the anthem "More Love to Thee, O Christ" by Carrie B. Adams.

Jeremiah Announces New Covenant

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Jeremiah 31.

"Again I will build thee, and thou shalt be built. O virgin of Israel: thou shalt again be adorned with thy tabrets, and shalt go forth in the dances of them that make merry."

"Thou shalt yet plant vines upon the mountains of Samaria: the planters shall plant, and shall eat them as common things," Jeremiah promises the Israelites, as the Lord revealed to him.

"Behold, I will bring them (the exiles) from the north country, and gather them from the coasts of the earth... I will cause them to walk by the rivers of waters in a straight way."

The whole city of Jerusalem shall be rebuilt and enlarged, is Jeremiah's promise from the Lord, and shall not be plucked up nor thrown down again. (GOLDEN TEXT—Jer. 31:33)

Fighting Through Doubt to Faith

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 26 is Jeremiah 31, the Golden Text being Jeremiah 31:33, "I will put my law in their inward parts, and in their heart will I write it; and I will be their God, and they shall be My people.")

WE ARE in the habit of thinking of Jeremiah as a doleful prophet, constantly warning the people of Israel of the ills that were to come upon them because of their wrong doing and disobedience to the laws of Jehovah. But in the lesson today, which is contained in the 31st chapter of Jeremiah, he changes his tone completely, and tells them that their troubles will be over in the time to come, that their holy city of Jerusalem will be rebuilt, and all the exiles will return home. They will plant their vines upon the mountains of Samaria, and eat the fruits thereof.

"Hear the word of the Lord, O ye nations, and declare it in the isles afar off, and say, He that scattered Israel will gather him, and keep him, as a shepherd doth his flocks."

The whole chapter is one joyous song of hope and promise. Commentators seem to think that these promises are solely for the Jewish people who, after all their sufferings through persecution and exile, will at last establish a nation in their old homeland, and be happy. Wouldn't it be wonderful if this does come to pass, as Jeremiah so confidently predicted so long ago?

Rebuilding Follows Prophecy As a matter of fact, Jerusalem is being rebuilt and the building that has been going on through recent years does follow the lines laid down in Jeremiah's prophecy:

"Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that the city shall be built to the Lord from the tower of Hananeel unto the gate of the corner. And the measuring line shall yet go forth over against it upon the hill of Gareb, and shall compass about to Goath. And the whole valley of the dead bodies and of the ashes, and all the fields unto the brook of Kidron, unto the corner of the horse gate toward the east, shall be holy unto the Lord; it shall not be plucked up, nor thrown down any more forever."

If you have access to a map of ancient and modern Jerusalem you will see how this is being done. The valley of the dead bodies is a place where there are many rock-cut tombs. The "ashes" have disappeared, but were formerly thought to be the ashes and rubbish cast out from the temple services.

These promises are the new covenant which Jeremiah announced: "Behold, the days come, saith Jehovah, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah; not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the days that I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt; . . .

"But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, saith Jehovah: I will put my law in their inward parts, and in their heart will I write it; and I will be their God, and they shall be My people . . . they shall all know Me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith Jehovah; for I will forgive their iniquity and their sin will I remember no more."

Paul, in the 11th chapter of Romans, refers to these same promises.

If Jehovah promises all this to the Jewish people if they will return to Him and do His will, may we not hope He will not do less for the rest of us? If we strive to establish peace instead of warfare, if we cultivate tolerance, brotherly love and justice, surely all the present world turmoil will eventually be stilled and the "peace that passeth understanding," security and the rebuilding of happy homes will come. The scene of this prophecy is Jerusalem, between 597 and 587 B. C.

Presbyterian Church To Be Scene Of Annual Sunday School Meeting

Speakers Scheduled For Afternoon, Drama In Evening, June 16

The annual Pickaway County Sunday School convention will be held June 16 in the Circleville Presbyterian Church. Plans for the convention were made during the last week by Sunday School leaders of the county.

Pastors in charge of the program said Saturday that the convention would be more "streamlined" this year than ever before. Speakers will be obtained for the afternoon session, a banquet for young people will be served at 6 p. m. and a drama will be presented during the evening. Some Sunday School leaders believe that programs have been too long and tiring. An effort will be made to make the day more interesting.

A conference will be conducted during the afternoon for Sunday School leaders. The topic of this year's meeting will be "Christian Education for Today."

Banners will be presented to the Sunday Schools having the largest attendance during the day.

Officers of the Pickaway County Council of Religious Education in charge of the event are E. S. Neuding, president; G. D. McDowell, vice president; G. P. Hunsicker, secretary and G. F. Grand-Girard, treasurer. Lawrence Ater of Williamsport is in charge of youth work in the organization.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICE TO START AT 8 O'CLOCK

The Baccalaureate service for the Senior Class of Circleville High School will be held in the First Presbyterian Church Sunday evening at 8 o'clock.

The Rev. Robert T. Kelsey will speak on the theme "What a Life."

Three musical numbers by the Presbyterian Choir will be presented during the service. Mrs. Clark Will and Franklin Price will sing a vocal duet "The Lord Is My Light" by Dudley Buck. A quartet composed of Mrs. Clark Will, Mrs. Ray Davis, Melvin Yates and Adrian Yates, will sing "Prayer" by Guion.

The choir under the direction of Loren Pace will sing the anthem "Great and Marvelous" by Turner.

Miss Abbe Mills Clarke, organist, will play two numbers, for the processional "Triumphal March" by Verdi, and for the postlude "Pomp and Circumstance" by Elgar.

MEMORIAL DAY RITES

A special Memorial Day service is planned for the Sunday morning worship period of the United Brethren Church, with the American Legion as guests of the church. "The Glory of the Past" will be the subject of the Rev. A. N. Grueser's sermon. The choir, under the direction of Charles Kirkpatrick, will sing the anthem "More Love to Thee, O Christ" by Carrie B. Adams.

Jeremiah Announces New Covenant

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Jeremiah 31.

"Again I will build thee, and thou shalt be built, O virgin of Israel: thou shalt again be adorned with thy tabrets, and shalt go forth in the dances of them that make merry."

"Thou shalt yet plant vines upon the mountains of Samaria: the planters shall plant, and shall eat them as common things." Jeremiah promises the Israelites, as the Lord revealed to him.

"Behold, I will bring them (the exiles) from the north country, and gather them from the coasts of the earth... I will cause them to walk by the rivers of waters in a straight way."

The whole city of Jerusalem shall be rebuilt and enlarged, is Jeremiah's promise from the Lord, and shall not be plucked up nor thrown down again. (GOLDEN TEXT—Jer. 31:33)

Franklin Price will sing a tenor solo during the service entitled "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. Organ selections to be played by Miss Abbe Mills Clarke are "Pastoral" by Chubb, "Serenade" by Gounod and "Postlude in G" by Colburn.

A Brotherhood meeting will be held at the Fairview United Brethren church, Monday night.

Miss Marvene Hennessy will lead the discussion at the First Methodist Church Epworth League meeting at 6:30 Sunday evening.

The Rev. F. C. Randolph of the St. John's Church, Lancaster, will preach at the St. Philip's Episcopal Church at 10:30 Sunday morning.

"Our Best Memorial" will be the subject of the Rev. C. F. Bowman, First Methodist church, at the Memorial service at 10:30 Sunday morning. The vested choir under the direction of Mrs. James P. Moffitt will sing the anthem "Re-creation" by De Koven and an offertory number, "Soldier Rest" by Scott. Mrs. Frank Kline will sing "Taps" by Pasternak.

Fighting Through Doubt to Faith

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Newman Campbell
(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for May 26 is Jeremiah 31, the Golden Text being Jeremiah 31:33, "I will put my law in their inward parts, and in their heart will I write it; and I will be their God, and they shall be My people.")

WE ARE in the habit of thinking of Jeremiah as a doleful prophet, constantly warning the people of Israel of the ills that were to come upon them because of their wrong doing and disobedience to the laws of Jehovah. But in the lesson today, which is contained in the 31st chapter of Jeremiah, he changes his tone completely, and tells them that their troubles will be over in the time to come, that their holy city of Jerusalem will be rebuilt, and all the exiles will return home. They will plant their vines upon the mountains of Samaria, and eat the fruits thereof.

"Hear the word of the Lord, O ye nations, and declare it in the isles afar off, and say, He that scattereth Israel will gather him, and keep him, as a shepherd doth his flocks."

The whole chapter is one joyous song of hope and promise. Commentators seem to think that these promises are solely for the Jewish people who, after all their sufferings through persecution and exile, will at last establish a nation in their old homeland, and be happy. Wouldn't it be wonderful if this does come to pass, as Jeremiah so confidently predicted so long ago?

Rebuilding Follows Prophecy
As a matter of fact, Jerusalem is being rebuilt and the building that has been going on through recent years does follow the lines laid down in Jeremiah's prophecy: "Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, that the city shall be built to the Lord from the tower of Hananeel unto the gate of the corner."

"And the measuring line shall yet go forth over against it upon the hill of Gareb, and shall compass about to Goath."

"And the whole valley of the dead bodies and of the ashes, and all the fields unto the brook of Kidron, unto the corner of the horse gate toward the east, shall be holy unto the Lord; it shall not be plucked up, nor thrown down any more forever."

If you have access to a map of ancient and modern Jerusalem you will see how this is being done. The valley of the dead bodies is a place where there are many rock-cut tombs. The "ash-heaps" have disappeared, but were formerly thought to be the ashes and rubbish cast out from the temple services.

These promises are the new covenant which Jeremiah announced: "Behold, the days come, saith Jehovah, that I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah; not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers in the days that I took them out of the land of Egypt; . . .

"But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, saith Jehovah; I will put my law in their inward parts, and in their heart will I write it; and I will be their God, and they shall be My people . . . they shall all know Me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith Jehovah; for I will forgive their iniquity and their sin will I remember no more."

mans, refers to these same promises.

If Jehovah promises all this to the Jewish people if they will return to Him and do His will, may we not hope He will not do less for the rest of us? If we strive to establish peace instead of warfare, if we cultivate tolerance, brotherly love and justice, surely all the present world turmoil will eventually be stilled and the "peace that passeth understanding," security and the rebuilding of happy homes will come.

The scene of this prophecy is Jerusalem, between 587 and 587 B. C.

MAKE WAR ON THE FIFTH COLUMN

EVERY war results in the coinage of new words and phrases, or general application and understanding of old ones long out of use. The World War brought us camouflage, for instance. The present one has made blitzkrieg well understood, and everyone who reads newspapers knows about the "fifth column."

Blitzkrieg and the fifth column go hand in hand, events of the last two years in Europe have proved. Without the fifth column Germany's blitzkrieg could not have spread with lightning swiftness, for the fifth column—infiltrated into territory long in advance of actual military operations, preparing the way spying out the land—is an important and necessary adjunct to war on wings.

And it is of the fifth column that we speak. The Dies Committee has revealed facts that should have startled Americans out of their lethargy. For there are fifth columns representing many general headquarters already operating in this country, if we are to believe the witnesses brought before the Dies Committee.

That goes for the big cities, the cities, villages and the hamlets throughout America. Communism, Fascism, Nazism all have their advance agents among us, and when we say "us" we mean the American people. They work in many ways, seeking to undermine our democracy, to discredit our leaders, to glorify the foul-smelling "causes" these trouble-stirrers represent.

The Americans realize that they must prepare to defend themselves completely and effectively if the Western World is not to become a battle ground in the future. The President of the United States and Congress have buckled down to work to prepare defenses to assure continuing peace. And the people of the Americas have a job to do.

Of great menace to any defense plans of this country are "fifth column" members. Don't think for a second that the Dies Committee has woven fairy tales to scare the public. Because the facts speak for themselves. Fifth Column operatives are scattered wherever there are important industrial plants, harbors, railway terminals, anything that might be of value in the event of a war. Don't forget that.

You can't be American and minimize this danger. That doesn't mean every American ought to become a committee of one to purge the country of fifth-columners. There are legal and well-ordered means of doing it. But it does mean that every American can be alert, can keep his eyes open, can be loyal in word and deed and thought to his own free land, can refuse to be made even an unwitting party to this infiltration process. And it ought to mean just that.

We have no open and avowed enemies, it's true. But we have enemies who are sapping at our form of government, who are jealous of our freedom, of our resources, of our wealth. We have no war with any nation, but we do have war with anybody's fifth column, with any dictator's information-gatherers, with any ism's propaganda-spreaders. Not a war

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BRASS RING TO ROSS COLLINS

WASHINGTON—During twenty somnolent years after the World War, the U. S. Army drilled its men, policed its posts, played polo, counted out army property from socks to ash-cans, ran its post exchanges, and performed all the other humdrum, prosaic duties of a peacetime army, unworried over the modern military trends which were to make Europe a shambles.

During most of these twenty years, the chief thorn in the side of the Army was a cherub-faced, rotund Congressman from Mississippi who refused to let the Army go to sleep. His name was Ross Collins; and with disconcerting consistency he kept taunting the Army with the fact that what it needed was more tanks, armored cars, airplanes, and fewer horses.

"Have you investigated the number of horses in the Air Corps?" Congressman Collins once asked General John F. Preston, Inspector General of the Army.

"No, sir," replied General Preston, who was testifying before Congressman Collins' Appropriations sub-committee. "I know at San Antonio they did have some for polo and exercise."

"For the officers or for the women-folk?" inquired Mr. Collins.

"No, sir, for the officers."

"For airplane duty?" persisted Mr. Collins.

"For airplane duty," General Preston replied.

"They must be flying steeds," grunted the Congressman.

WATCHES ARMY MONEY

Ross Collins is in a strategic position. For years he has sat on the sub-committee on military appropriations, where he could watch every item spent on national defense, and help to shape the policy of the Army.

And the Army came to hate him. They called him a pacifist. They tried to contribute to his defeat back home in Mississippi.

They hated him because he was always trying to goad them into adopting the type of weapons with which Hitler is now sweeping Europe. And today the Army, a little belatedly, admits that Ross Collins was right.

When asked why he began to urge a mechanized army ten years ago, when the General Staff was none too enthusiastic, Collins drawled:

"Look up and down Pennsylvania Avenue. Do you see any horse and buggies? No. People are all traveling in motor cars. Then why should we handicap the Army by putting them back in the horse and buggy days?"

"Or take khaki cloth. We all know that it will not stop machine-gun bullets. So why expose our soldiers to them? Hitler doesn't. He manufacturers armor for his men, armor in the form of tanks."

"We are the greatest scientific and industrial nation in the world, but we have applied our science and industry to everything except our military defense."

MACARTHUR'S 'CHINESE ARMY'

Congressman Collins blames General Douglas MacArthur for handicapping the mechanization of the Army, and pays tribute to him.

Dentistry an Infant

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

AS WE pointed out when writing yesterday, the profession of dentistry is only one hundred years old. It was in 1840 that a college for the education of dentists was founded in Baltimore. The practice of dentistry then was largely that of tooth pulling or the making of dentures.

One of the earliest American dental memorials was George Washington's teeth, exhibited in Baltimore on the occasion of the centenary celebration and which were made of hippopotamus bone.

I suppose the greatest advance that has been made in dentistry in the hundred years of its existence has been in public education of the necessity for cleaning teeth in order to prevent decay. It is difficult for us to realize that the toothbrush and cheap dentifrices are themselves of fairly modern origin. The first toothbrushes were made of horse hair or pieces of cloth or linen, sometimes of sponge.

Sad Statistics
The use of the toothbrush is still in its infancy according to statistics, for it is estimated that 70 per cent of the population of North America have never had their teeth examined and about 60 per cent have never brushed their teeth.

The idea of filling teeth and preserving them instead of pulling them out is also an introduction of the last century. The old dentists used to use coins, gold and silver and lead, wherever they could get it, for tooth filling. The introduction of plaster and enamel is credited to Laurie of Edinburgh, about 1854.

Crown and bridge work, while it has been attempted in very early times, has been put on a scientific basis only in quite recent times. It was in 1864 that a Swedish dentist suggested the fitting of a gold crown, and J. B. Beers, an American dentist, in 1873, made a gold shell crown which was so obviously practical that it stimulated others to invent adaptations of it.

Dentistry has naturally profited from two great advances in medicine—one, the introduction of anesthesia for which dentists were considerably responsible, and two, the use of the X-ray.

Local anaesthesia has, for most dentists, taken the place of general anaesthesia for major dental operations. It seems strange that dentists, who have been so largely responsible for the early work in anaesthesia, have never perfected a practical method of preventing pain in minor operations, such as drilling and cavity-filling.

Ouch!
The X-ray, of course, is a great boon to dentists. A great deal has been learned about tooth infection, unerupted teeth, malposition, since its introduction. I feel that we should pass on a warning from Dr. Walter S. Thompson of Los Angeles who cautioned women against wearing heavy make-up when they go to dentists for X-ray. The cosmetics may form a layer of mineral substance on the skin which absorbs enough X-ray energy to cause burns. It takes quite a strong current to make good dental films and the danger of burning is by no means theoretical.

Another great advance in dentistry is the specialty of orthodontia or straightening teeth and creating good occlusion of the mouth, which is of course of benefit to general health.

There is still work for dentists to do because it is estimated that there are 800,000,000 cavity-pitted teeth in the United States, or about 6.5 bad teeth per person.

THE SIX girls were delighted to stay for dinner at The Oaks. "You've been working all morning and afternoon on the play," Gayle told them. "But we simply must have a dress rehearsal tonight. Do you mind?"

"It isn't work," somebody protested. "It's fun."

"Sh-h-h-h!" another protested, warily. "It's a job, isn't it? Don't we get paid? Don't admit it isn't hard!"

Hers was the standard attitude of workers everywhere, workers who are scared their jobs will evaporate from under them. This odd employment in The Oaks was indeed more fun than labor. In truth, it was much like a house party all the time, although there is a tedium in preparing a stage play. Nevertheless, Gayle and Bill repeatedly told them that first consideration was to be cheerful and gay so as to make friends with Jeremy Tucker. Mr. Merrifield had specifically requested it, they said.

Therefore, Gayle wanted the dinner to be like a party again. She gave some thought to it soon after Bill departed.

"I know!" she jabbed a finger at little Tempe Hyde. "Let's make it a picnic—on the lawn. It's a glorious evening, Tempe. Won't you just love it?"

Tempe was bubbly with enthusiasm for it, and together they went to the cook to make their plans.

"Sure, whatever you girls like," Wallace declared himself at once. "If The Oaks ain't got it, we'll get it."

"Oh, everything is so nice here, Wallace!" Gayle burst out, suddenly grateful anew. "This great kitchen is like a hotel's. And everybody is friendly. Goodness!"

Wallace spread greasy hands on a meat block and leaned on them, looking at the two girls.

"You wasn't—you wasn't rich before you come here, was you, Miss Gayle? What I mean—you've worked?"

"Certainly have, Wallace. I am not in the least ashamed of it. I'm out of place here."

"No." He shook his head. "No, you ain't. Well—how's pigs in blankets sound to you? I'll toast 'em brown here and scot 'em out to you while they're sizzlin'. Ginger punch—that's lemons and oranges and a dash of ginger and ice made into snow. Ovocado salad, on a lettuce ear, huh? French dressing. And I'd baked up a couple of coconut layer cakes anyway. I was gonna broil T-bones, but I'll keep them triz till tomorrow. Where you want your picnic at?"

"Goodness, Wallace, we said a picnic, not a banquet! Out by the biggest oak, I suppose. It makes a canopy there."

"Right, ma'am. In 'bout half an hour."

Wallace turned to plop open a huge refrigerator and drew out links of sausages to start his blanketed pigs. He whistled as he worked; his white hat sat at a jaunty angle, and he looked nearer 30 than the 49 he claimed. Gayle and Tempe smiled their thanks and went away.

They found the other girls and told them of picnic plans. One girl, Lola Montesa, stayed behind, but the others joined Tempe and Gayle to go pick out the exact spot.

They came back then to hunt for Mr. Merrifield and Mr. Weems and invite them. Six girls trooping through the big mansion, laughing and calling and talking incessantly, made quite a gay hullabaloo.

Mr. Merrifield found them before they came to his study.

"Greetings, my dears!" he beamed at them. "You are beautiful, all of you. Why do you not come to see me oftener? Do you not work for me? Do I not pay you salaries? I order all of you to report to me once each day hereafter, in a body. I want to hear you, and see you smile!"

"Tch-tch-tch! Are you flirting with us, Mr. Merrifield? Shame!"

"If I only knew how! Who will teach me?"

"I will!" cried Tempe Hyde.

Horoscope for Sunday
So you are having a birthday today, and doubtless are wondering what the next year will bring forth. According to astrology, it will be an eventful twelve months, with promotion and advancement promised. You are warned to avoid disputes, however, or you may find yourself entangled in litigation which will bring some losses. Moods of pessimism are the one thing watchful parents should be on their guard against in the child who is born on this date. Otherwise the child will be clever and original, refined and artistic, social and humane. Could a parent ask more? Success in the literary field is predicted.

The girls were linked arm in arm when they suddenly discovered him.

"I am older than Tempe, Mr. Merrifield," said another. "And more experienced, I'll bet. I shall teach you."

"Hush!" Gayle commanded. "Mr. Merrifield and I are already engaged. Or have you forgotten, sir?" She pretended alarm.

He matched the mood and spoke seriously. "I have always wanted to be a polygamist. May I not be engaged to all of you at once? I am in my prime. I have steady work and a little money laid aside. I will look at no other women."

Everybody laughed then, and Gayle cried out, "Can't trust you! But we came to invite you to a picnic. You can have that date with us all. On the lawn."

He accepted the date with courtesy. So obviously pleased was he that all the girls lingered to talk a bit more. Mr. Weems came in and was invited. The two old gentlemen were to meet the girls at 6:30 on the lawn; they knew Mr. Merrifield liked to dine early.

Jeremy Tucker was not to be found immediately. It was little Tempe who thought first of him and went off in search.

He wasn't in the library, she reported; nor anywhere upstairs. Nobody knew just where he might be. In this great mansion a person could easily become lost, for it had three stories of several large rooms each, not to mention a full attic and basement. Outside it was some 20 acres of assorted forests, massed shrubbery, flower gardens, garages, gardeners' and servants' quarters, and an old-time horse stable even with a surrey and a buggy still there. Jeremy might have wandered anywhere.

The girls were linked arm in arm, six abreast, parading outside when they suddenly discovered him. He turned slowly around a clump of fragrant greenery and came into view with Lola walking with him.

Tempe stopped first. Quite involuntarily her mouth popped open, and Gayle glanced at her.

Instantly Gayle was struck by the expression on the smaller girl's face. Tempe Hyde, who could be so bubbly and cute most of the time, suddenly showed anger. Or indeed, it seemed to be more than anger. It was more like hatred, and this was the second time Gayle had observed it there. It didn't last long.

In the same moment, virtually, Tempe got control of herself, forced a broad smile and spoke brightly. "There they are!"

Gayle said nothing. They all creature thinks enough of you to eat your shoes?"

MAKE WAR ON THE FIFTH COLUMN

EVERY war results in the coinage of new words and phrases, or general application and understanding of old ones long out of use. The World War brought us camouflage, for instance. The present one has made blitzkrieg well understood, and everyone who reads newspapers knows about the "fifth column."

Blitzkrieg and the fifth column go hand in hand, events of the last two years in Europe have proved. Without the fifth column Germany's blitzkrieg could not have spread with lightning swiftness, for the fifth column—infiltrated into territory long in advance of actual military operations, preparing the way spying out the land—is an important and necessary adjunct to war on wings.

And it is of the fifth column that we speak. The Dies Committee has revealed facts that should have startled Americans out of their lethargy. For there are fifth columns representing many general headquarters already operating in this country, if we are to believe the witnesses brought before the Dies Committee.

That goes for the big cities, the cities, villages and the hamlets throughout America. Communism, Fascism, Nazism all have their advance agents among us, and when we say "us" we mean the American people. They work in many ways, seeking to undermine our democracy, to discredit our leaders, to glorify the foul-smelling "causes" these trouble-stirrers represent.

The Americans realize that they must prepare to defend themselves completely and effectively if the Western World is not to become a battle ground in the future. The President of the United States and Congress have buckled down to work to prepare defenses to assure continuing peace. And the people of the Americas have a job to do.

Of great menace to any defense plans of this country are "fifth column" members. Don't think for a second that the Dies Committee has woven fairy tales to scare the public. Because the facts speak for themselves. Fifth Column operatives are scattered wherever there are important industrial plants, harbors, railway terminals, anything that might be of value in the event of a war. Don't forget that.

You can't be American and minimize this danger. That doesn't mean every American ought to become a committee of one to purge the country of fifth-columners. There are legal and well-ordered means of doing it. But it does mean that every American can be alert, can keep his eyes open, can be loyal in word and deed and thought to his own free land, can refuse to be made even an unwitting party to this infiltration process. "I certainly have, Wallace. I am not in the least ashamed of it. I'm out of place here."

"No," he shook his head. "No, you ain't. Well—how's pigs in blankets sound to you? I'll toast 'em brown here and scot 'em out to you while they're sizzlin'. Ginger punch—that's lemons and oranges and a dash of ginger and ice made into snow. Ovocada salad, on a lettuce ear, huh? French dressing. And I'd baked up a couple of coconut layer cakes anyway. I was gonna broil T-bones, but I'll keep them 'til tomorrow."

Where you want your picnic at?"

"Goodness, Wallace, we said a picnic, not a banquet! Out by the biggest oak, I suppose. It makes a canopy there."

"Right, ma'am. In 'bout half an hour."

Wallace turned to plop open a huge refrigerator and drew out links of sausages to start his blanket pigs. He whistled as he worked; his white hat sat at a jaunty angle, and he looked nearer 30 than the 49 he claimed. Gayle and Tempe smiled their thanks and went away.

They found the other girls and told them of picnic plans. One girl, Lola Montes, stayed behind, but the others joined Tempe and Gayle to go pick out the exact spot.

They came back then to hunt for Mr. Merrifield and Mr. Weems and invite them. Six girls trooping through the big mansion, laughing and calling and talking incessantly, made quite a gay hubbub.

Mr. Merrifield found them before they came to his study.

"Greetings, my dears!" he beamed at them. "You are beautiful, all of you. Why do you not come to see me oftener? Do you not work for me? Do I not pay your salaries? I order all of you to report to me once each day hereafter, in a body. I want to hear you, and see you smile!"

"Tch-tch-tch! Are you flirting with us, Mr. Merrifield? Shame!" "If I only knew how! Who will teach me?"

"I will!" cried Tempe Hyde.

If you are going to spend a lot of time at a beach this summer, don't do your sunbathing on the diving board. Some one might like to use it for diving, you know.

Horoscope for Sunday

So you are having a birthday today, and doubtless are wondering what the next year will bring forth. According to astrology, it will be an eventful twelve months, with promotion and advancement promised. You are warned to avoid disputes, however, or you may find yourself entangled in litigation which will bring some losses. Moods of pessimism are the one thing watchful parents should be on their guard against in the child who is born on this date. Otherwise the child will be clever and original, refined and artistic, social and humane. Could a parent ask more? Success in the literary field is predicted.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. In the Tyrol, between Bozen and Innsbruck.
2. A periodic wind in certain latitudes in the Indian ocean and southern Asia generally.
3. On an average of 29 days 12 hours, from new moon to new moon.

The girls were linked arm in arm when they suddenly discovered him.

"I am older than Tempe, Mr. Merrifield," said another. "And more experienced, I'll bet. I shall teach you."

"Hush!" Gayle commanded. "Mr. Merrifield and I are already engaged. Or have you forgotten, sir?" She pretended alarm.

He matched the mood and spoke seriously. "I have always wanted to be a polygamist. May I not be engaged to all of you at once? I am in my prime. I have steady work and a little money laid aside. I will look at no other women."

Everybody laughed then, and Gayle cried out, "Can't trust you! But we came to invite you to a picnic. You can have that date with us all. On the lawn."

He accepted the date with courtesy. So obviously pleased was he that all the girls lingered to talk a bit more. Mr. Weems came in and was invited. The two old gentlemen were to meet the girls at 6:30 on the lawn; they knew Mr. Merrifield liked to dine early.

Jeremy Tucker was not to be found immediately. It was little Tempe who thought first of him and went off in search.

He wasn't in the library, she reported; nor anywhere upstairs. Nobody knew just where he might be. In this great mansion a person could easily become lost, for it had three stories of several large rooms each, not to mention a full attic and basement. Outside it were some 20 acres of assorted forests, massed shrubbery, flower gardens, garages, gardeners' and servants' quarters, and an old-time horse stable even with a surrey and a buggy still there. Jeremy might have wandered anywhere.

The girls were linked arm in arm, six abreast, parading outside when they suddenly discovered him. He turned slowly around a clump of fragrant greenery and came into view with Lola walking with him.

Tempe stopped first. Quite involuntarily her mouth dropped open, and Gayle glanced at her.

Instantly Gayle was struck by the expression on the smaller girl's face. Tempe Hyde, who could be so bubbly and cute most of the time, suddenly showed anger. Or indeed, it seemed to be more than anger. It was more like hatred, and this was the second time Gayle had observed it there. It didn't last long. In the same moment, virtually, Tempe got control of herself, forced a broad smile and spoke brightly.

"There they are!"

Gayle said nothing. They all creature thinks enough of you to eat your shoes?"

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By— Charles F. Stewart

CONGRESSWOMAN EDITH NOURSE ROGERS of Massachusetts did her party (the Republicans) a right good turn when she introduced her resolution to keep the national lawmakers in continuous session for the duration of the war.

Of course, the Republicans, as well as the Democrats, have been desperately anxious, all along, to adjourn and go home, to attend to their campaign fences.

However, Mrs. Rogers provided the G. O. P. with an issue which promises to serve its spokesmen well throughout the coming fight, whether the legislators do or don't adjourn.

If they do adjourn the Republican version will be to the effect that the Democrats did it (being in a big majority, they can decide the question either way) for purely political reasons, leaving the country to its fate and to the caprices of President Roosevelt, regardless of the tremendous emergency of today.

If they don't adjourn, the G. O. P. story will be to the purport that the Democrats didn't care to do so, much as they wish to, because they didn't trust the President.

I don't know that the congresswoman had all this in mind when she offered her resolution, and did it deliberately. But, anyway, the Republicans were quick to see the point and immediately began chuckling over it delightedly. The Democrats were quick to see it also, but it hasn't been a chuckling matter on their part.

KEEP US OUT OF WAR?

The war's spread has robbed the Republicans of a certain amount of their thunder in another way. They'd been figuring on concentrating upon the domestic situation—upon emphasizing their contention that the country's economies still are in bad shape despite the New Deal (and they believed they could make out a middling fair case of this sort) and their notion was to say, "Never mind the war; let's vote on conditions here at home."

That might have been all right if the Germans and the Allies had stayed dead/locked on the west front, but the present blitzkrieg looks like drowning out much talk of domestic affairs.

To be sure, the Republican campaign cry will be, "Keep us out of war."

The Democratic cry will be the same thing, though.

Two cries, just alike, will about balance one another. The Republicans, at best, will be no better than the Democrats.

bute to the present Chief of Staff, General Marshall, as an ardent advocate of modern military equipment.

"MacArthur wanted a Chinese army," says Collins: "a lot of men and low fire-power. That's exactly the reverse of the Germans. They had a small army under the Versailles Treaty and they had to make every man count for a lot. So they specialized in modern weapons. Each man had to get the maximum fire-power out of his weapons. That's why Germany developed the airplane, the tank and the armored car to such perfection."

"That's the secret of our national defense today. We don't need a lot of foot soldiers, as MacArthur would have us. It is harmful to mobilize them without equipment. It is far easier to train men than to equip them, and if you train them with outmoded weapons you have to train them all over again."

"What our army needs is less gold braid and trolley wire on its uniforms, and more overalls. Put every man in overalls, and you'll have a lot better defense than if he has stripes on his pants."

OLD OFFICERS

Another complaint Congressman Collins makes against the Army is that it is run by old men. Many of its officers, he says, are wartime clerks frozen into the Army during the World War, who remain because they couldn't make a living elsewhere.

During the Hoover Administration, Collins inserted in the army appropriation a cut of 2,000 inefficient and old officers from the rolls. A howl went up from the Army such as has not been heard since Admiral Cockburn burnt the Capitol in 1814. Eventually the provision was defeated in the Senate, and there has been no tampering with the Army's outmoded promotion system until this year, when a provision for the retirement of officers over 60 seems sure to pass Congress.

Today the Army has come around to consider Ross Collins a real friend. But he still is critical, and recently held the 1941 War Department appropriation bill up to ridicule because out of about a billion dollars only $100,000,000, or one-tenth, is to be spent for equipment—and Collins considers equipment far more important than manpower.

ARMY HOSTESSES

However, the Army will never forget those pungent days when the sarcastic Gentlemen from Mississippi was trying to rouse it from its lethargy, and when he cross-examined Major General C. H. Bridges regarding army hostesses:

"I know you want ladies around the post," said Collins. "These schools have a way of putting uniforms on the best looking girls and making honorary colonels of them. It's part of a plan to play up sex appeal. You are putting women into the Army every chance you get."

Or again, when examining the Chief of the Air Corps as to why aviators needed bands, the Gentleman from Mississippi said:

"I suppose you take your bands up in the air with you—an instrument in every plane—to play heavenly music to the angels."

BRICKER URGES OHIOANS TO AID RED CROSS FUND

In a letter released this week from the office of John W. Bricker, governor of Ohio, and received by Carl Leist, Pickaway County Red Cross chairman, the governor appealed to the citizens of Ohio to wholeheartedly support the Red Cross war relief fund by contributing generously to their local chapter.

A copy of the letter follows: With the invasion of Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, the already widespread suffering in European countries is creating greater and more urgent demand upon the Red Cross for relief.

In this grave emergency, Norman Davis, Chairman of the American National Red Cross, has requested the 3,700 Red Cross Chapters in the United States to take immediate steps to raise a minimum war relief fund of $10,000,000, of which Ohio's quota is $1,000,000.

The American Red Cross already has cabled an offer of assistance to the invaded countries. Feeling sure that citizens of Ohio will want to do everything possible to alleviate the suffering of both civilians and war wounded, I earnestly appeal to the people of Ohio to wholeheartedly support the Red Cross war relief fund by contributing generously to their local Chapters.

AN EVENTFUL and memorable day, with breathtaking occurrences of insistent and far-reaching influence is presaged from the lunar and mutual planetary aspects. The unusual, unforeseen and unpredictable may be looked for—these probably uprooting, upsetting and drastically disturbing, not without much benefit and profit; but the gains mature because of shrewd insight and clever manipulation of subtle and singularly obscure and challenging factors. It may take intrigue or secret understanding, with advice from elders, to profit.

Those whose birthday it is are at the brink of a surprising year, of rapid and swift-changing events, with radical and far-reaching effect of the fortunes and future happiness. Dramatic adventures and drastic upheavals may open up a world of fresh thrills and spectacular achievements, lucrative and gratifying because of shrewd and tactful management of subtle and intriguing situations. Wise counsel of elders may assist in these dynamic and singular excursions.

AMANDA

Members of the Senior class, chaperoned by their instructors the Misses Lee Ray and Alice Andrews enjoyed a picnic at Coney Island Wednesday. They also visited other points of interest in and around Cincinnati.

The young people of the Ohio Evangelical conference held a rally at the Evangelical Church of Circleville Sunday. Those attending from the Cedar Hill church were Hugh Huffer, who conducted the singing; Eloise Lynn, Lois Williamson, the Rev. Mrs. Mockeey Miss Ruth Boerstler, Mrs. Frank Kull and daughter, Gwendolyn.

An Evangelical Centennial was held Sunday at the old Moyer homestead near Ringwood where the first Ohio Evangelical Conference was held. The meeting at that time was held in the barn. One session was held Sunday in the home and another session was held in the barn as had been done 100 years ago.

Those enjoying the day from the Cedar Hill Church were Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Reigel, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Reigel, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Williamson, Frank Hinson, Mrs. Frank Kull and daughter, Gwendolyn, Miss Ruth Boerstler, Kirby and Emmett Huffer.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Hartman of Columbus were Sunday callers of their son, Ralph Hartman and family.

Mrs. B. M. Banks spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. Salome Thomas and family.

Nelson Fausnaugh of Amanda, who suffered a severe heart attack, while on a week's fishing trip at Buckeye Lake last week, has been removed to his home. He shows some improvement, although his condition still is considered critical.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Phillip, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Bushee and daughter Edith were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gaylard Phillip and daughter, Janet.

William Smith of Toledo, a former resident of this community is critically ill. Mr. Smith is the brother of Mrs. Alice Myers and Sanantha Miesse.

ACCIDENT IN NORTHERD TOSSES STRAW IN ROAD

Two trucks, one belonging to the Grant Trucking Company, Jackson, Ohio, and driven by Paul Brownfield, and the other a straw truck, driven by Clarence Martin, Delphos, collided at Court and Park Streets at 4 o'clock Saturday morning. The body of the Brownfield truck was badly damaged and most of the straw was knocked off the Martin truck. Patrolman George Green reported.

bute to the present Chief of Staff, General Marshall, as an ardent advocate of modern military equipment.

"MacArthur wanted a Chinese army," says Collins: "a lot of men and low fire-power. That's exactly the reverse of the Germans. They had a small army under the Versailles Treaty and they had to make every man count for a lot. So they specialized in modern weapons. Each man had to get the maximum fire-power out of his weapons. That's why Germany developed the airplane, the tank and the armored car to such perfection.

"That's the secret of our national defense today. We don't need a lot of foot soldiers, as MacArthur would have us. It is harmful to mobilize them without equipment. It is far easier to train men than to equip them, and if you train them with outmoded weapons you have to train them all over again.

"What our army needs is less gold braid and trolley wire on its uniforms, and more overalls. Put every man in overalls, and you'll have a lot better defense than if he has stripes on his pants."

OLD OFFICERS

Another complaint Congressman Collins makes against the Army is that it is run by old men. Many of its officers, he says, are wartime clerks frozen into the Army during the World War, who remain because they couldn't make a living elsewhere.

During the Hoover Administration, Collins inserted in the army appropriation a cut of 2,000 inefficient and old officers from the rolls. A howl went up from the Army such as has not been heard since Admiral Cockburn burnt the Capitol in 1814. Eventually the provision was defeated in the Senate, and there has been no tampering with the Army's outmoded promotion system until this year, when a provision for the retirement of officers over 60 seems sure to pass Congress.

Today the Army has come around to consider Ross Collins a real friend. But he still is critical, and recently held the 1941 War Department appropriation bill up to ridicule because out of about a billion dollars only $100,000,000, or one-tenth, is to be spent for equipment—and Collins considers equipment far more important than manpower.

ARMY HOSTESSES

However, the Army will never forget those pungent days when the sarcastic Gentlemen from Mississippi was trying to rouse it from its lethargy, and when he cross-examined Major General C. H. Bridges regarding army hostesses:

"I know you want ladies around the post," said Collins. "These schools have a way of putting uniforms on the best looking girls and making honorary colonels of them. It's part of a plan to play up sex appeal. You are putting women into the Army every chance you get."

Or again, when examining the Chief of the Air Corps as to why aviators needed bands, the Gentleman from Mississippi said:

"I suppose you take your bands up in the air with you—an instrument in every plane—to play heavenly music to the angels."

BRICKER URGES OHIOANS TO AID RED CROSS FUND

In a letter released this week from the office of John W. Bricker, governor of Ohio, and received by Carl Leist, Pickaway County Red Cross chairman, the governor appealed to the citizens of Ohio to wholeheartedly support the Red Cross war relief fund by contributing generously to their local chapter.

A copy of the letter follows: With the invasion of Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg, the already widespread suffering in European countries is creating greater and more urgent demand upon the Red Cross for relief.

In this grave emergency, Norman Davis, Chairman of the American National Red Cross, has requested the 3,700 Red Cross Chapters in the United States to take immediate steps to raise a minimum war relief fund of $10,000,000, of which Ohio's quota is $1,000,000.

The American Red Cross already has cabled an offer of assistance to the invaded countries. Feeling sure that citizens of Ohio will want to do everything possible to alleviate the suffering of both civilians and war wounded, I earnestly appeal to the people of Ohio to wholeheartedly support the Red Cross war relief fund by contributing generously to their local Chapters.

STARS SAY—

For Saturday, May 25

AN EVENTFUL and memorable day, with breathtaking occurrences of insistent and far-reaching influence is presaged from the lunar and mutual planetary aspects. The unusual, unforeseen and unpredictable may be looked for—these probably uprooting, upsetting and drastically disturbing, not without much benefit and profit; but the gains mature because of shrewd insight and clever manipulation of subtle and singularly obscure and challenging factors. It may take intrigue or secret understanding, with advice from elders, to profit.

Those whose birthday it is are at the brink of a surprising year, of rapid and swift-changing events, with radical and far-reaching effect of the fortunes and future happiness. Dramatic adventures and drastic upheavals may open up a world of fresh thrills and spectacular achievements, lucrative and gratifying because of shrewd and tactful management of subtle and intriguing situations. Wise counsel of elders may assist in these dynamic and singular excursions.

A child born on this day may be talented in some extraordinarily and spectacular way, original, independent, unorthodox and audacious and at the same time crafty, intuitive, imaginative and of far vision. It may explore unknown fields in art, drama, science, romance, religion or mysticism.

For Sunday, May 26
SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE is a forecast of much steadfast and serious progress in the direction of advancement, preferment, esteem and perhaps dignities at the hands of superiors, employers and those in high place of power and prestige. The intellectual and studious faculties are active and aspiring despite much profundity. Those whose birthday it is may

MANY PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATIONS TO JOIN IN MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES

PARADE MOVES IN CIRCLEVILLE AT 9 O'CLOCK

Fred C. Clark To Speak At Forest Cemetery Rites; Bands To Participate

VILLAGES TO BE BUSY

Special Services Arranged At Williamsport, Other Points In County

Eight patriotic organizations will parade with Circleville police, city officials and the high school and junior bands in the Memorial Day exercises next Thursday, E. C. Ebert, chairman of the Memorial Day program committee, announced Saturday, as he completed plans for the event. Fred C. Clark will be the guest speaker.

The parade will start at 9 o'clock from Memorial Hall and will proceed to the soldiers' lot, Forest Cemetery, and from there to St. Joseph's Cemetery. Daughters of Union Veterans will be in charge of the program.

Officers of the Day will be Lorin Dudson, commander of the Howard Hall Post, 134, while the parade marshals will be E. W. Keys and Dr. B. R. Bales. The flower committee will be comprised of members of the Daughters of Union Veterans, American Legion Auxiliary, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary. Those in charge of grave decoration will be Mack Parrett, George Burns, William Betts Jr., Fred Donnelly, Howard Irwin, Ralph Roby and Floyd Dean.

The order in which organizations will march in the parade is as follows: Police and city officials, color guard, Officers of the Day, American Legion Drum Corps, Spanish American War Veterans, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, high school band, junior school band, Boy Scouts and school children. Those who will follow in automobiles will be the Daughters of Union Veterans, Daughters of the American Revolution, American Legion Auxiliary and Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary.

The Rev. F. G. Strickland, pastor of the Christian church, Williamsport, will be the speaker at the Williamsport Memorial Day services. The program will be held at Springlawn cemetery at 10 o'clock.

The Central High School band, Columbus, will furnish the music for the New Holland and Darbyville ceremonies. L. W. Reese, superintendent of the Washington C. H. city schools, will deliver the address at both ceremonies. Darbyville service is scheduled at 12:30 and New Holland at 3.

Services at Harrison Township cemetery, South Bloomfield, will be held at 10:30 a. m. and at Reber Hill east of Ashville at 1:30 p. m. Rev. A. N. Greuser, Circleville United Brethren church pastor will speak at Reber Hill.

CHESTERFIELD'S SERIES NEW AND SPECTACULAR

A great airliner named for Chesterfield Cigarettes is the "flight leader" in a nation-wide Chesterfield campaign for June, released this week to newspapers in all 48 states, Alaska and Hawaii by Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company.

Among other spectacular advertisements in the new series are those featuring the cast of the New York musical show, "High-er and Higher"; the beauty queen of Northwestern University; "Doc" Wellman, champion fisherman and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. of motion picture fame. Every advertisement has excellent reader interest because of the individual personalities, and the way they help drive home the line "Do You Smoke the Cigarette that Satisfies."

The campaign is effectively supplemented by beautiful and original point-of-sale displays, billboard and magazine advertising, and by the coast-to-coast radio broadcasts of Fred Waring's "Pleasure Time" and Glenn Miller's "Moonlight Serenade," on the country's largest networks.

OTTAWA — Canada's Parliament was in week end recess today after several days of lightning action culminating in full approval of the $700,000,000 war budget requested by Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

ROME — Under a drastic new emergency decree, the Italian government today was empowered to conscript all property throughout the empire as well as to draft all Italians over the age of 13 for necessary work, starting next week.

NEW YORK — The United States liner President Roosevelt was well out to sea today on her dash to Galway, Ireland, to bring back American war refugees gathering there from Britain and France. Throughout the night brilliant searchlights played on the American flags newly painted on the President Roosevelt's sides and upper deck. Hundreds of lifeboats and scores of life rafts were piled high on her decks.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — Three Royal Air Force officers were shot and wounded today when mistaken by airport guards for enemy parachutists. The three British fliers were driving in an automobile past an airdrome in Ulster when the guards, mistaking them for "fifth column" members or enemy parachutists, opened fire.

PARIS — French newspapers today reported that American bombing planes, many of which have arrived in France in the last few days, went into action yesterday attacking and strafing Nazi troop concentrations and lines of communications.

FOUR FILE REPORTS OF PRIMARY RACE EXPENSE

Four expense accounts of Pickaway County primary candidates were filed with the Pickaway County board of elections as the deadline for accounts closed Friday night. Those filed Friday afternoon were:

Charles Kirkpatrick, Republican candidate for clerk of courts, $9.98.

John R. Heiskell, Republican candidate for clerk of courts, $79.83.

William D. Radcliff, successful Republican candidate for Representative to the General Assembly, $10.

Clarence W. Helvering, Democratic candidate for county commissioner, $212.83.

Glamour, Drama Offered By City's Theatres

SPENCER Tracy and Hedy Lamarr head the glamorous cast coming to the Circle Theatre Sunday in "I Take This Woman." It appears Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Also booked are Gene Autry in "Red River Valley."

LAURENCE Oliver and Joan Fontaine live through many unusual experiences before they settle down to a peaceful romance in David O. Selznick's "Rebecca," which was directed by Alfred Hitchcock for United Artists release at the Cliftona Theatre Sunday.

RAY Milland and Anna Neagle are the much engrossed pair in this waltz scene taken from the spectacular screen version of "Irene" based on the famous stage musical comedy, which opens at the Grand Theatre Sunday.

Yorkshire is one of three subdivisions of that county, separated for administrative convenience, and in it is included the shipbuilding center of Middlesbrough. The exact location of the bombing casualties was not disclosed, however.

Warning Brings Action

Meanwhile, on the heels of King George's warning of the "perilous ordeal" facing the British Empire, England sped reinforcement of her coastal defenses in anticipation of a direct attack on the British Isles.

"It is no mere territorial conquest our enemies are seeking," the king declared. "It is the overthrow, complete and final, of this empire and everything for which it stands—and after that, conquest of the world."

"... to all of us ... the issue is now plain. This is a life-and-death struggle."

British military authorities, while refusing to reveal details of their preparations, said that Dover—only 20 miles from Calais—and other English Channel ports, were ready "for anything Hitler may have up his sleeve."

Full precautionary measures have been taken at Dover, Folkestone, Harwich, Newhaven, Eastbourne and Hastings, scene of the landing of William the Conqueror in 1066, and other points on the coast.

With the capture of Boulogne by the Nazis the British authorities admitted "the situation must be regarded as very grave." There was no sign of panic in the channel ports today, however, nor has there been any evacuation, even by children.

No Chances Taken

Simultaneously, Britain continued its vigorous roundup of "fifth column" suspects. Yesterday's catch included Capt. Franz von Rintelen, chief German spy and sabotage director in the United States during the World War. Rintelen gave up his German citizenship two years ago because he opposed the Nazis. However, the British are taking no chances, and today he is in a concentration camp, "somewhere in England."

TED LEWIS TO APPEAR TUESDAY AT LAKE PIER

Ted Lewis and his world famous orchestra plus his entire floor show will appear at the Pier Ballroom, Buckeye Lake, Tuesday for one night only. Ted is playing the only one night in the state of Ohio at this time. Ted still sings "Just Around The Corner," still performs on that clarinet, still gives with all those old and new numbers that the ring side insist on.

Ted is still the whole show—that is, Ted is still enough of a show within himself to make a night worth while. He dominates the floor from the time he walks out and starts festivities with that trusty clarinet in a band opener which features a splendid obbligato by the male trio in his band, until he finally rings down the curtain with an insistent rendition of the "St. Louis Blues." Acclaimed by all critics "better than ever."

Featured in his revue are the Radio Aces, The Dennis Sisters, and "Snow Ball" Whittier.

troops caught by the swift German thrust to the channel reported still trapped and defending themselves desperately.

But the trap was said by the Germans to be closing slowly and irresistibly. This was evidenced, German headquarters said, by the drive to Calais and Ghent as well as the successful Nazi defense of their salients against Allied counter-attacks from the pocket and northward around Amiens.

Amiens Still Held

The latest French attack on Amiens (outskirts of which the French said they entered Thursday) was described as "weak" and unsuccessful in an official German communique.

In the channel itself opposite the scenes of fighting, the Germans were reported harassing Allied naval activities with plane bombardments and operations of swift torpedo boats.

If the steel ring around Allied troops in Flanders and northern France can be closed successfully, the Germans expected the following results:

1. Termination of British and Belgian military action in continental fighting.

2. Bringing of Italy and possibly Spain closer to participation in the war on the Reich's side. (In this connection it was noted that British appointed Sir Samuel Hoare as Ambassador to Spain on "a special mission" and that Italian liners' sailings from Mediterranean ports were temporarily postponed.)

3. Place Chancellor Hitler in position to launch his greatest plan of the war—a land, sea and air attack on Britain itself.

TWO MEN TO SPEAK ON INSURANCE FOR FARMER

Two men well-known in the field of insurance will discuss, "Insurance and the American Farmer," in an interview over Radio Station WLW, Cincinnati, on May 31, it was announced by John G. Boggs, chairman of the Pickaway County Agricultural Conservation Committee.

Leroy K. Smith, manager of the Federal Wheat Crop Insurance Corporation, Washington, D. C., and Edward P. Kern, assistant superintendent of Agencies, Bankers Life Company, Des Moines, Iowa, will discuss life insurance as it applies to the farmer and the latest innovation, insurance on wheat.

The interview will be a part of the regular feature, "Everybody's Farm," heard daily over WLW. The time of the broadcast has been set for 12:15.

Statistician Roger Babson, running for the presidency on the prohibition ticket, should be able to pour facts and figures on 'em.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES, O. S. U. floriculturist

QUESTION: I have been trying for some time to find out the name of the early blooming, small, single-flowered, pale yellow rose in the old-time Ohio gardens. Established clumps of these roses are often seen blooming near old dilapidated houses. Under what name would I be able to buy this from the nurseries?

ANSWER: Although the newer variety, Rose hugonis, is more desirable than these old-fashioned roses, if you do wish to get it I believe you will find it is one of the two, either Harrison's Yellow or Persian Yellow.

QUESTION: I am interested in tuberous rooted begonias. If I want to use them as pot plants in the house do I leave them growing all the time as other begonias or do the bulbs need a rest?

ANSWER: The tuberous rooted begonias, although extremely satisfactory as pot plants during the summer or when grown out-of-doors, in either case they want shade, will rest whether you want them to or not during the winter. It is practically impossible to keep them growing and blooming during the winter months.

QUESTION: In one of your recent writings you mentioned liquid manure. I should be so glad if you would tell me how to make it as our druggist seems to know nothing about it.

ANSWER: In place of the old-fashioned liquid manure which so many of our present-day writers still seem to think that city folks can get with no difficulty at all, may I recommend the use of its modern equivalent; one ounce of Ammonium sulfate dissolved in two gallons of water. You can water your plants liberally with this as they are beginning to produce buds and again as the buds are showing color. This, however, should never be used to replace regular fertilization since it contains nothing but nitrogen whereas your plants need the application of phosphorus and potash in addition to this. For this purpose I would recommend the use of a 4-12-4 complete commercial fertilizer.

QUESTION: Can you tell me how I can rid my lawn of dandelions? They have almost covered my front lawn. I have tried to dig them out but it does no good as they only grow out again.

ANSWER: There is no easy method of eradicating dandelions, although the recommendation often is made to spray them with iron sulfate, using one and one-half pounds to one gallon of water and applying three to four gallons to 1000 square feet of lawn. This must be applied every 10 days or two weeks from now until the dandelions are finally dead. It usually takes five applications. I find it much easier to dip an old ice pick in a wide-mouthed bottle of sulphuric acid, and put a drop of the acid in the center of each dandelion. This usually will kill the greater percentage of them the first time. With old dandelions, it will usually take two or three dippings, unless you get the roots.

For fast growing crisp crops, such as spinach, celery and lettuce, apply nitrate of soda.

MANY PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATIONS TO JOIN IN MEMORIAL DAY SERVICES

PARADE MOVES IN CIRCLEVILLE AT 9 O'CLOCK

Fred C. Clark To Speak At Forest Cemetery Rites; Bands To Participate

VILLAGES TO BE BUSY

Special Services Arranged At Williamsport, Other Points In County

Eight patriotic organizations will parade with Circleville police, city officials and the high school and junior bands in the Memorial Day exercises next Thursday, E. C. Ebert, chairman of the Memorial Day program committee, announced Saturday, as he completed plans for the event. Fred C. Clark will be the guest speaker.

The parade will start at 9 o'clock from Memorial Hall and will proceed to the soldiers' lot, Forest Cemetery, and from there to St. Joseph's Cemetery. Daughters of Union Veterans will be in charge of the program.

Officer of the Day will be Lorin Dudson, commander of the Howard Hall Post, 134, while the parade marshals will be E. W. Keys and Dr. B. R. Bales. The flower committee will be comprised of members of the Daughters of Union Veterans, American Legion Auxiliary, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary. Those in charge of grave decoration will be Mack Parrett, George Burns, William Betts Jr., Fred Donnelly, Howard Irwin, Ralph Roby and Floyd Dean.

The order in which organizations will march in the parade is as follows: Police and city officials, color guard, Officer of the Day, American Legion Drum Corps, Spanish American War Veterans, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, high school band, junior school band, Boy Scouts and school children. Those who will follow in automobiles will be the Daughters of Union Veterans, Daughters of the American Revolution, American Legion Auxiliary and Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary.

The Rev. F. G. Strickland, pastor of the Christian church, Williamsport, will be the speaker at the Williamsport Memorial Day services. The program will be held at Springlawn cemetery at 10 o'clock.

The Central High School band, Columbus, will furnish the music for the New Holland and Darbyville ceremonies. L. W. Reese, superintendent of the Washington C. H. city schools, will deliver the address at both ceremonies. Darbyville service is scheduled at 12:30 and New Holland at 3.

Services at Harrison Township cemetery, South Bloomfield, will be held at 10:30 a. m. and at Reber Hill east of Ashville at 1:30 p. m. Rev. A. N. Greuser, Circleville United Brethren church pastor will speak at Reber Hill.

CHESTERFIELD'S SERIES NEW AND SPECTACULAR

A great airliner named for Chesterfield Cigarettes is the "flight leader" in a nation-wide Chesterfield campaign for June, released this week to newspapers in all 48 states, Alaska and Hawaii by Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company.

Among other spectacular advertisements in the new series are those featuring the cast of the New York musical show, "Higher and Higher"; the beauty queen of Northwestern University; "Doc" Wellman, champion fisherman and Douglas Fairbanks Jr. of motion picture fame. Every advertisement has excellent reader interest because of the individual personalities, and the way they help drive home the line "Do You Smoke the Cigarette that Satisfies."

The campaign is effectively supplemented by beautiful and original point-of-sale displays, billboard and magazine advertising, and by the coast-to-coast radio broadcasts of Fred Waring's "Pleasure Time" and Glenn Miller's "Moonlight Serenade" on the country's largest networks.
